

Ross Station Service

This project seeks to replace the Ross substation station service.

This project is an end of life replacement of the station service, with the addition of primary service requirements for Ross complex additions.

This project is a replacement and expansion of existing equipment. The key decision drivers are the continued reliability and operations of the Ross complex buildings, service to Clark Public utilities, poor condition of existing assets, and increased capacity needed for new buildings.