I took a drive down to the end of the Kootenai River Road to enjoy the beauty of the Bighorn Park. When I reached the end turn around, what stood out to me was these big, huge and ugly power lines, not the beauty of the area. In what should be one of the most beautiful hikes in Libby the power lines tower over you, bringing the whole experience down. Big Horn Terrace has the potential of being a rich and beautiful part of Libby, but not without the help of the BPA. The BPA has the chance to give the Libby area back more of its value and beauty. So much has been taken and lost from Libby, with bad press from companies that have come into Libby and destroyed the area. Please go the distance on the Libby (fec) to Troy power line upgrade, by moving a few poles at the end of Big Horn Terrace and the start of Bighorn Park, so residents and visitors can all enjoy this small piece of Libby. Please consider making the last few poles near Big Horn Terrace green to blend in with the natural background or maybe put the last part of the lines under ground. We all need your help, because your choices and your decision will effect everyone who sees the park or lives in Big Horn Terrace.

Thank you and please help,
