

Automated Operations Planning (AOP)

This project, part of a larger grid modernization effort, aims to enhance power and transmission system operations through improved situational awareness and real-time data. It seeks to optimize system limits, quickly identify and resolve reliability issues, and ultimately increase efficiency in engineering tasks and automated study runs. The project will be implemented in phases, with the initial phase focusing on immediate capabilities and preparing for future automation.