e. Grievance. A request by an employee, or by a group of employees acting as individuals, for personal relief in a matter of concern or dissatisfaction relating to employment which is subject to the control of management and is not excluded under this Order.

f. Grievance File. A separate file subject to the Privacy Act which contains all documents related to the grievance. This file will include, but is not limited to, the grievance(s); requests for representative and related documents, requests for mediation/ADR and settlement agreements if reached, statements of witnesses, if any, the report and recommendations of any technical policy review, if applicable, etc.

g. Heads of Departmental Elements/Heads of Organizations/Administrators. For purposes of this order, this person is the Senior Management Official for a departmental element/organization/administration.

h. Informal Deciding Official. The person at the lowest management level, including the employee’s immediate supervisor, who can remedy the employee’s specific concern or dissatisfaction. The informal deciding official is usually the employee’s first level manager/supervisor. He/she may be directly involved in the matter being grieved, and is the official to whom the informal grievance is presented.

i. Mediation. A type of alternative dispute resolution (ADR) commonly used at DOE to resolve workplace disputes. In mediation, a neutral third party (the mediator) assists the parties in discussing their concerns in a productive manner. The mediator does not take sides, but assists the parties express their concerns, and identify options that are workable for all involved. Although participation in ADR is always voluntary for employees, if an employee requests ADR, managers and supervisors are expected to participate, absent extenuating circumstances. Mediation may be used at any stage of the grievance process. Once mediation is elected, the time limits of the grievance process are held in abeyance pending the completion and/or termination of the mediation.

j. Personal Relief. A specific remedy directly benefiting the grievant, which may not violate law, rule, regulations or policy or include a request for disciplinary or other action affecting another employee.

8. CONTACT. Questions concerning this order should be addressed to the OCHCO, HC-10.

APPENDIX B. GRIEVANCE TIMELINES

This Appendix provides grievance timelines as established by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) Administrative Grievance Order.
APPENDIX B. GRIEVANCE TIMELINES

Delays in processing grievances. Deciding officials should ensure that grievances are processed promptly. Delays at any stage of the administrative grievance procedure beyond the prescribed time limits must be explained to the employee and their representative, and must be documented for the record. Such delays should be rare and held to a minimum. If the employee delays in any stage of the grievance procedure, the deciding official will determine whether there was good cause for the delay and whether the grievance should continue to be processed. Such delays and explanations will be documented for the record. This includes any delay created by the employee's representative. Absent good cause, untimely delays will result in rejection of the grievance.

Time limits. A decision on an administrative grievance will be issued within the shortest timeframe possible. To ensure timely and orderly processing, the following time limits are established for each stage of the grievance procedure, however, there may be occasions where timelines are amended due to operational needs/requirements of the Department and/or mutual agreement:

<th>Informal grievance</th>

*Completion timelines freeze during designation of representative after initial disallowances/ADR requests, and other considerations (i.e. SL/FMLA/etc.)

APPENDIX C: GRIEVANCE RECONSIDERATION REVIEW FORMAT

This Appendix provides a sample of items that need to be contained in a grievance reconsideration review which may be triggered by certain circumstances as established by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) Administrative Grievance Order.
APPENDIX C. GRIEVANCE RECONSIDERATION REVIEW REPORT

Grievance Reconsideration Reviewers (hereinafter reviewers) should consider the following factors in preparing a Report of Findings and Recommendations to respond to a request for a reconsideration:

1. After completion of the review, the reviewer should prepare and provide the formal deciding official with a Report of Findings and Recommendations. The report must show a determination of facts, based on analysis of evidence secured through the inquiry and review of the grievance file. This review should be limited to the scope of the informal grievance absent approved jurisdictional deviation. For each relevant and timely issue, the reviewer must analyze and weigh the evidence related to that issue.

2. If the reviewer finds that the employee has a reasonable basis for the grievance, the reviewer must then consider whether the adjustment is reasonable or alternatively what else might be reasonable or recommended.

3. The reviewer's findings for each relevant and timely issue may be organized along the following lines:
   a. Identification of the issue,
   b. Analysis and weighing of evidence pertinent to the issue (preponderance of evidence standard),
   c. Statement of whether the employee's grievance is valid, and
   d. Whether the requested adjustment is appropriate, and if not what the deciding official might consider as a recommended adjustment.
   e. Reasons should be provided in regard to determinations made by the reviewer pertaining to adoption of the employees requested remedy or any other recommended adjustments.

4. If the reviewer excludes any matter raised in the grievance because the matter is not covered under the grievance system, the report should contain an explanation to that effect.

5. In the case of a management requested grievance reconsideration review, the report is due as soon as possible. For an employee to request a valid reconsideration, the report is due within 30 days from receipt of the valid written employee request. The reviewer should make the grievance file and their findings available to the employee and the employee's representative upon request.

6. For management requested reviews, the reviewer will indicate in the report that the deciding official must notify the grievant of the their formal decision within 10 calendar days after receipt of the report and must make them aware that a OCHCO review was requested and whether or not HC recommendations were followed, along with rationale for following or deviating from HC findings and recommendations.
