Dear Customers:

Under the TC-20 Settlement Agreement (Settlement), BPA agreed to offer at least two opportunities for customers to convert their long-term firm transmission product designation from either Point-to-Point (PTP) to Network Integration (NT) transmission service or from NT to PTP (see TC-20 Settlement Agreement, Attachment 1: Terms, part 2(i)). These opportunities are referred to as product conversion windows.

The first product conversion window had an election period from March 2019 through March 2020, with a service commencement date of October 1, 2021. The second window election period will be open from March 2021 through March 2022 and the service commencement date will be October 1, 2023.

To commence the second product conversion window, BPA is requesting that customers provide written notice of their interest in participating in the product conversion process by 4:30 P.M. March 5, 2021. Please send your notice of interest to techforum@bpa.gov, using TC-20 Product Conversion in the subject line and copy your Transmission Account Executive.

Each customer considering converting from PTP to NT should include with its notice:

- Resources it is considering designating to serve load (including behind the meter resources),
- Amount of each designation, and
- Identify the existing PODs for product conversion.

Each customer considering converting from NT to PTP should provide the following:

- POR-POD combinations for the PTP rights it wishes to obtain,
- Associated capacity for each desired contract path.

A customer that provides notice of interest in product conversion will not be required to convert its service. Customers that do not provide an initial notice of interest in converting by 4:30 P.M. March 5, 2021 will not be eligible to participate in this product conversion window. A customer that has elected to convert service in the first window is not eligible to convert back to its current service during the second window. These windows do not limit the ability for a customer to request product conversion at the expiration of their existing transmission service.
